

Urban Pioneers
Feed The World
The object of the session is to work together to overcome problems to acquire the materials to sow a seed and feed the world.	By the end of this session the participants will know what a seed needs to grow and sow some crop seed to take back to school or centre. They will have more awareness of the environmental issues to food production, healthy living and their role in this.
Save The Forest
The object of this session is to learn more about woodlands and their close relationship with all plants and animals on Earth.	By the end of this session the participants will know how important woodlands are to the health of Planet Earth and all it's inhabitants. They will have spent time in a woodland and done some of their own research. They will have more awareness of the environmental issues to our planet and their role in this.
Living Discovery – see – hear - feel
The object of this session is to take a sensory walk in an outdoor environment and record what you see, hear and feel around you from nature.	By the end of this session participants will be more in touch with the outdoor environment in which we all live. They will use identification skills and record their findings. They will have more awareness of the habitats that are all around us and the direct impact they have on our lives.
Waste Not – Want Not
The object of this session is to become aware of how much waste is created by a packed lunch.	By the end of this session the participants will have a greater awareness of waste and recycling. They will know the difference between biodegradable and recyclable and how to recycle properly. They will have more awareness of the environmental issues around waste production and reducing waste and their role in this.
